

Justice Laurie D. Zelon, Ret.

Results Beyond DisputeSM

Following more than 22 years on the bench, 18 of which were on the Court of Appeal, Justice Laurie Zelon has retired and is available to serve as a mediator, arbitrator, and private judge with a strong focus on arbitrations, private trials, special master assignments, neutral analysis, and appellate reviews. Justice Zelon brings a wealth of experience from her 23 years of practice prior to her judicial appointment, during which she represented corporations and governmental bodies in high-value disputes, including financial, governance, product liability, energy, geotechnical, and land use matters. On the appellate court, she addressed a comprehensive range of issues, authoring opinions across diverse areas of the law. Known for her meticulous attention to detail in preparation and decision-making, Justice Zelon is also respected for her approachability and commitment to mentorship. Her extensive background as a trial lawyer in high-stakes, large-scale commercial cases, combined with her judicial insights, makes her exceptionally equipped to handle complex matters. Justice Zelon described her approach to private dispute resolution stating, "My role as a neutral is to be an advocate for meaningful resolution by guiding individuals and organizations to understand their behavior and solve problems constructively. When people receive a hearing that they perceive as fair and conducted by a true neutral, they can resolve their dispute in a lasting manner."
